

Hello,

My name is Warren Sitterley and I'm the Property Manager for the new San Francisco Federal Building. I've worked for the GSA for over 31 years now, in positions such as Chief Engineer and various levels of property management. I was the last Federal manager of the Old Mint and helped re-open the James R. Browning U.S. Courthouse after the Loma Priata earthquake, and managed it for ten years . I was part of the team that opened this new S.F. building as well, so I've been working in this area of San Francisco for over 15 years.

Some of you have left suggestions in the box we were using prior to this website's opening and I'd like to respond to some of them.

1. We do have an ashtray for smokers. It is mounted on a pole adjacent to the flagpole in the Plaza.
2. The child care vendor does not offer subsidies as it is a for-profit firm. If it didn't make money it would have to close down.
3. Putting benches across from passenger elevators P-6 and P-7 for those with mobility issues is a good idea. We are looking at cost issues at the moment, and I cannot promise when this might happen, but it is an idea we are actively pursuing.
4. We do have CNN news up on the Infowall. In fact in one of the layouts, it is the only news channel playing.
5. We now have an electronic suggestion box available on this website. It automatically e-mails Melodie and I; there isn't a box to be ignored anywhere.

That's all I have time for now, but check back in occasionally. I'll have more later.

Warren
